Veer-Zaara (Hindi: वीर-ज़ारा) is a romantic Indian film directed by Yash Chopra. Its story is about the love between a Punjabi soldier named Veer and an Indian princess named Zaara. It is the first of the four-part Veer-Zaara series, the others being Dil Se (1989), Dilwale Dulhania Le Jayenge (1995), and Ek Raat Si Aati Hai (2007). The film is loosely inspired by the medieval Indian epic poem, the Ramayana, and the 16th century chieftain, Chattrapati Shivaji. The film's title is derived from the names of the couple and Veer (Hindi: वीर) is a pun on the Hindi word "veer" (Hindi: वीर), which means "veer", and "Zara" (Hindi: ज़ारा), which is the Hindi word for "veer". The film was remade in Telugu in 1994 as Donga Ramudu (English: The Lion King) and in Tamil in 1995 as Anbe Sivam (English: The Warrior). The film is inspired by the legend of Veer-Zaara of the Ramayana. The Veer-Zaara series is unique in that it is a history and a love story as well as a contemporary story. The film takes place in Jodhpur, Rajasthan, India and is set during the time of the Rajputs. Part 1, Veer-Zaara was released on 20 November 1989 and became a huge commercial success, grossing more than ₹800 million, becoming the first Indian film to reach the ₹1 billion mark. It was also the first Indian film to gross more than $1 million in the United States, but it was criticised for its poor editing and mixing Hindi with English. It is the highest-grossing film of Yash Chopra's career and it won the National Film Award for Best Feature Film on National Integration. It was also among the Top 10 highest-grossing Indian films of 1989. A2Z is a non-profit fan site dedicated to Pakistani actress Nargis. It was started by Ali M. Munir and his son Ghizlan M.
